

Job description

COMMERCIAL CATERING ENGINEER

Do you want to change something in 2024? Are you tired of your current job and looking for new challenge? Join our Team!!! We provide service for fast-growing chain of bakeries, coffee shops, and restaurants etc.

Caterglobe is inviting applications for the position of a qualified Commercial Catering Engineer (electrical and mechanical) ideally London-based.

As part of the engineering team, you will be responsible for servicing, repairing and installing a wide range of commercial catering equipment including ovens, dishwashers, hot water tea boilers, bread slicers, soup kettles, panini grilles, toasters and much more.

At Caterglobe, we're proud to have grown to become a respected Maintenance Contractor in the commercial catering industry. We successfully make positive differences in the lives of our clients, helping them run their businesses smoothly on a day-to-day basis. Based in North London, we have forged a reputation as a trustworthy and efficient company, equipped with a highly qualified, reliable workforce able to handle even the most difficult jobs.

How do we work together?

We assign callouts to each engineer through our specialised platform. We do work 7 days per week, 9 hrs shift. Rota shared with other engineers: 7days/3days/5days etc.

Your Duties will include:

- Servicing / Installation of catering equipment to an excellent standard.
- Responding to equipment breakdowns and emergency repairs including effective diagnostics skills.
- Completing, and updating all related reports/documentation/pictures on the specialised platform using a tablet or phone.
